It is also resistant to defoliation diseases, early blight and leaf spot. Thus far it has out-yielded other varieties by 30%. You will find this to be the top ranking Tomato. Hemerocallis or Daylilies

Daylilies or Hemerocallis are one of the most reliable perennials for midsummer color. The profusion of bloom will last nearly a month. They will readily adapt themselves to almost any climate in the U.S., and in practically all soils. Although they like the sun, they are tolerant of shade, and are seldom bothered by insects. Vigorous enough to resist invasion by weeds, they grow stronger and more beautiful each year. After having observed a number of varieties in our trials for several years we believe this plant is unsurpassed for its cheerful dependability. Try some of these daylilies in your own garden. Plant them in your flower border or garden, as a ground cover around a tree, silhouetted against a fence, or in a movable plant tub. Plant several varieties for color variation and to extend the bloom period. Their uses are many because of their easy adaptability.

The daylilies listed below have been selected for their color range and hardiness. We guarantee to ship you healthy, thrifty plants, true to name. For your best buy, try our special collection listed below.

Jung's Select Peonies

"The Lifetime Flower"

No other perennial is hardier or produces more flowers with such attractive foliage. Peonies are easy to grow, once planted they remain for many years with little care except for fertilization.

They are available in a wide range of color and form and will grow more beautiful each year. The flowers are excellent for cutting and will last for a long period. Plant them also as a hedge, in perennial beds or borders and as a landscape planting. Peonies are comparatively free from insects and diseases and are adaptable to most soils and locations although they prefer a rich deep loam and sunny location.

We ship only strong three to 5 eye divisions of our own careful growing. Plants are sent in Aug. and Sept. which has been proven the best time for starting new plantings.

TU-TONE OR WATER LILY PEONIES

"Tu Tone or Water Lily" Peonies

The rare beauty of these Peonies rivals the finest water lilies, they will add interest and beauty to your early flowering garden. They will give you a longer and more varied blooming period than the double varieties as their flowering period has three distinct stages. 1st—In the opening or bud stage they resemble double varieties. 2nd—Partly open they are distinctly cup shaped with the center a contrasting color. 3rd—In full bloom the petals open wide with center remaining upright. Because of their upright habit and stiff stems you will rarely see their flowerings in the mud after heavy rains. Excellent for cut flowers at any stage and outstanding for landscaping because of their bright contrasting colors. We can supply them. 1775—Brilliant Red; 1776 Rosy Pink; 1777 White: Each 75c; 3 for $2.00; 6 for $3.85.
